Burglars steal rifle and meat cleaver

A MAN has described the moment he saw three teenagers fleeing from his house – and realised an air rifle and meat cleaver were missing.

The 38-year-old, who did not want to be named, told the Weekly News he returned to his home in Sturmer Road, Haverhill, on Monday at 1.15pm to find the security chain in place across the inside of the door.

After thinking his housemate, aged 18, had left the chain on by mistake, he walked around to the back garden and saw three lads running from the house.

He said: "I'm disappointed now that I didn't run after them but I didn't have time to think."

"I wanted to get into the house and see what had been taken."

A Weihrauch HW77 .22 air rifle with telescopic sights, valued at £300, a kitchen meat cleaver and a signed Chelsea football had been taken.

The man said that all the missing items were taken from a room used for storage and that there could be other unaccounted things missing too.

The man, who is a tenant at the house, saw one of the culprits running towards the bottom of the garden while the other two headed for a nearby industrial estate.

The first boy is described as white, around 16 years old and wearing a dark hooded top.

DEBRA FOX

He said the other two suspects were also white and in their mid to late teens.

He added: "They only looked about 16, maybe 18 at the most. They need to be dealt with."

"These kids aren't on the right track and in a few years they could end up stabbing someone."

The tenant said that he had previously lived in Cambridge for 20 years before moving to Haverhill six months ago for work.

He praised the police for their quick action and said they were very thorough in their attempts to track down the burglars.

He said: "They came and took fingerprints and even got a footprint so it gives me confidence that they might be able to catch them."

"I have made up my mind if they come back again I am not just going to stand there and watch them run off."

Anyone with information about this incident is asked to contact DC Mark Robinson at Bury St Edmunds CID on 101.

You can also call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

No, it's a new campaign to tackle irresponsible dog owners who are still refusing to scoop the poop. The hope is that this time they will be shamed into clearing it up. Story on Page 7.

REVEALED: The community budget was unveiled last week. Mayor Roger André is pictured, centre, with members of the ONE Haverhill Board, including chairman Anne Gower, second chair Sarah Howard, far right

Youth to benefit from Community budget

A ONE stop shop for youth services is one of the outcomes of the highly anticipated community budget for Haverhill.

The budget, which was unveiled last Thursday, set out to achieve change for the town initially in two areas – better opportunities for young people and improving the physical environment in the town.

Plans were introduced to open a centre for youth activities in Haverhill, as well as recruiting community ambassadors to be the eyes and ears for problems on the streets.

The new youth centre will provide activities, careers and employment advice, training and other activities all in a single premises.

DEBRA FOX

It will be open to all young people in Haverhill and will also provide targeted help for vulnerable or disengaged young people.

A Youth Skills Manager is going to be appointed to take control and they will work towards developing more apprenticeships, traineeships, and work experience placements in the town.

Sarah Howard, Vice Chair of ONE Haverhill Board and a member of Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, said every decision with regards to the budget was made in consultation with the Haverhill residents to deliver what they wanted.

She said: "We had a massive contribution from local people.

We sent out surveys to involve people and we had about 600 replies, which is one in 45 of the population.

"We didn't do anything until we knew what the people of Haverhill wanted to be done."

Alongside activities and support for young people in the area, another main concern of residents was improving roads and paths.

During ONE Haverhill's research and consultation period, they identified that many people in the community were happy to help in reporting problems or doing minor repairs such as fixing a broken sign or cutting back shrubbery.

A website called Fix My Street is also going to be used to help residents report problems they see in their local area, and track their progress.

Sarah said: "We have now got, I think, a really good level of trust going on around the table and people are contributing a lot."

Catch a heartwarming poet's story as it goes on the road

A MOVING tale of love and robots is coming to Haverhill and is tipped to be a must see.

The story, which is a combination of a poignant view on love and some quirky details on robot experiments, can be seen in the town at the end of June.

Molly, who's first solo show debuted at Edinburgh Fringe in 2010 before going international, also writes scripts for TV, theatre and radio.

The extraordinary story can be seen at The Punch Bowl Inn in Battsford on June 27, at 7.30pm.

Tickets are £9 per head which includes a supper, and all tickets must be booked in advance.

The fun starts here!

There's entertainment everywhere you look as the Haverhill Festival 2013 launches in style today

BY DEBRA FOX

WHETHER music, theatre or family fun is your thing, this year's Haverhill Festival has something for everyone to enjoy.

The extravaganza, which runs until June 30, is packed to the brim with activities suitable for seasoned art lovers and fitness fanatics with even a creepy crawl or two.

The annual event is officially being opened tonight by The Searchers, who will perform at Haverhill Arts Centre from 8pm, but the first event of the programme is a bug hunt for toddlers kicking off at 10.30am in East Town Park.

If you want to enjoy the festival season outdoors, you can always join in with a morning of sporty tricks, explore the town's old railway or have a leisurely browse at Haverhill Rugby Club's fun day.

The fun will well and truly spill out onto the streets on the penultimate day with the festival's street party event.

Acrobats, dancers and singers alike will combine in their efforts to entice passers by into the fray to ensure they don't miss out on the celebrations.

If you're not a fan of the great outdoors there is plenty on schedule to keep you in the theatre.

An Evening of Dirty Dancing is the ultimate girls night out or, if you're feeling adventurous, dust off those platforms and spend a night in the vibes of The Supersonic 70s show.

It is guaranteed that something will take your fancy.

The range of activities and events are on offer at a range of prices so there will also be something to suit your budget.

With such a variety on offer, it's difficult to choose what to do first, and Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager for Haverhill Town Council, admitted that though he had his favourites, he too was in a sticky wicket when it came to what was top of his list.

He said: "With many of the events remaining free to attend, the festival maintains its original aspirations of being a community led celebration, promoting leisure and arts activities, encouraging and providing opportunities for participation and adding to the quality of cultural life in Haverhill."

"I particularly recommend the events held by the Haverhill and District Local History Group, The Choral Society and Haverhill Sinfonia, as well as the Street Festival and, well, they are all excellent, I recommend them all."

Children are well catered for too, and as well as bug hunt fun there is the chance for budding thespians to get involved.

Image Musical Theatre's The Wind in the Willows is taking place on Saturday, June 15, at 2.30pm and is one of the productions to bring the best of family theatre to the town.

Younger audience members are invited to play the part of some of the favourite woodland animals and all audience members can join in with the popular songs.

Visitors, guests and performers can see the festival out in style side by side with a grand Last Night of the Proms-style event to be held at the Independent Church on Sunday, June 30, from 7.30pm.

The traditional farewell, organised by Haverhill Operatic Society and Haverhill Silver Band, is a fantastic finale that's not to be missed.

For more information contact Haverhill Arts Centre on (01440) 718934 or visit www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

County combines its pedal power for charity cycle

A CHARITY bike ride will tour through Suffolk in an attempt to raise money and awareness for the World Land Trust – an organisation supported by Sir David Attenborough.

The cycle, organised by the Suffolk Climate Change Partnership (SCCP), will go towards the Trust's 'Buy an Acre' appeal in Bolivia, which will protect an endangered species of bird – the blue-throated macaw. It is hoped the appeal will also double the size of the Barba Azul reserve, which supports giant anteaters, pumas, jaguar and black howler monkeys.

The ride sets off on June 23 from Halesworth and will pass and stop at many places en route.

A team of representatives from Suffolk County Council, Environment Agency, University Campus Suffolk and Groundwork Suffolk will give the 60 mile journey their best shot.

Participants will head through Dunwich, Leiston, Snape, Chillesford, Wickham Market, Framlingham, Sweffling and Walpole.

COUNTRY: Hank, Cash & Cline can be seen at Haverhill Arts Centre on July 4 at 7.30pm

Catch the best of country

THREE late country music legends will ride again when their show makes a stop in Haverhill.

The influential hits of Hank Williams, Patsy Cline and Johnny Cash will combine in a spectacular show that is a must-see for all fans of the genre.

The kings and queen of country will come alive on stage as their tracks are revisited and revamped in an authentic theatre performance, supported by the Driftwood Cowboys.

Hank Williams died in 1953 and left the biggest country music legacy for all further performers while Patsy Cline was killed in an airplane crash in 1963.

Johnny Cash reached out beyond country music and shaped the world with his toe-tapping hits of Walk the Line and Ring of Fire, to name a few.

Hank, Cash & Cline is on at Haverhill Arts Centre on July 4 from 7.30pm.

Contact the box office on (01440) 714140.

MP 'honoured' to open new offices during tour of the town

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock paid a visit to his constituency and took a tour around some of the town's spots.

Mr Hancock, who was visiting on June 7, stopped off at Dizzy's Day Nursery and Coupsals Primary School before formally opening the new Havebury Housing offices on the high street.

He then went on to events in Brandon and Newmarket.

Dizzy's are the only day nursery in Haverhill to have an Early Years Professional to lead the team and the only nursery to have been awarded the Suffolk Quality Assurance Award with Investors in Children Status.

Mr Hancock said he was very impressed by the nursery, and understood why it had received such high recognition.

He then officially opened the new Havebury Housing office before holding a regular advice surgery in the town.

The MP said: "Havebury Housing are a fantastic charity here in Haverhill and I was honoured to formally open their new offices on the High Street. "These offices will allow the Partnership to keep up the great work they do and I wish the team here all the best with their new facilities."

Mr Hancock plans to take extended absence to coincide with the birth of his third child this summer, it was also recently revealed.

VISIT: The MP opened the new Havebury Housing office on the town's high street

New groups needed to join in

AN UMBRELLA group representing community transport operators in the county is calling for more organisations to join up.

Suffolk Community Transport, which includes operators such as The Voluntary Network, based in Newmarket, was set up last year to offer support to community transport providers.

Chief executive Yvonne Chappell said: "Many parts of the country now experience transport poverty, which means people's quality of lives are affected as they do not have access to transport either through age, rural isolation, accessibility or physical and mental disability."

"The services provided by the community transport groups are so important to Suffolk which is largely rural with social isolation for many residents."

The group is also planning to invest in new training.

Travelling in style, in a campervan called Flo

DEBRA FOX

A CAMPERVAN called Flo is making a name for herself up and down the country as customers queue up to take her for a spin.

Paul Giddings, 33, and wife Lauren, 29, set up their VW campervan hire company Go with the Flo in February and since then the couple have been inundated with requests from people hoping to take a trip in stunning Flo.

Flo was born in 2006, is painted in a bright aquamarine and decked out in Cath Kidston right down to the plates and cups.

The couple, of Arrendene Road, Haverhill, first thought of hiring out a campervan before Lauren fell pregnant with their now two-year-old son, Evan.

When Evan was born in 2011, the couple were told their baby had a heart condition which causes his heart to beat up to 320 times a minute and means he cannot travel abroad.

Paul and Lauren decided a campervan would be the ideal thing to enable them to have holidays.

Paul, 33, said: "We were booked up to go to Euro Disney in Paris and found out we couldn't go. But now he doesn't stop talking about the van."

"Any campervan he sees he thinks is daddy's and all his toys and t-shirts are campervans."

FLO AND FAMILY: Paul Giddings and son Evan, with Flo

Flo has more than 500 likes on her Facebook page and Paul said that people just fall in love with her.

Flo has been hired out for weddings, proms and family getaways and even a trip to Glastonbury is on the cards.

Paul said: "We want it to look like it's special and people hire it because they want to experience a VW campervan."

"We can't go anywhere without people taking pictures of her."

"The attention she draws is unbelievable."

The family are hoping to buy a brother or sister for Flo next year to cope with the high demand of customers looking for the VW campervan experience.

Paul said that he's hoping for a bright orange one.

A CONSULTATION period over Vision 2031 plans will begin on June 18.

The framework details expected growth for Bury St Edmunds, Haverhill and the sur-

That makes a refreshing change

REGARDING Vision 2031 story in last week's Weekly News:

I WOULD just like to say that it's very refreshing for Haverhill to finally have someone on board to speak up for the town.

I am a bit of a newbie; I moved here from London 13 years ago and I feel the town gets unfairly put down, and is also being held back by its own council.

Any money seems to go to Bury and all we seem to get is broken promises and surveys. I think a lot of this is due to its position on the Essex / Cambridge border as Suffolk and St Edmundsbury want to keep any money within the county and don't want to talk to our neighbours about improving the surrounding infrastructure for its residents, so we just get lip service saying there is no money or there is no backing but everywhere else is improving, getting new roads, new train stations and high street upgrades.

What's very frustrating for me is I think most of Haverhill residents are up for development in and around the town as long as we get what's supposed to come with it.

I work in construction and I commute to London every day to work and I have done for the whole time I have lived here. This has been my choice to keep food on the table but I think I would have struggled had I tried to stay in work here.

I would like to work locally but to build another 2,000 homes around the town is crazy, where are they going to work?

Biggest of all is the need for a new train station, this would put the town on the map and I feel would make the town an instant success.

The town could have a nice shopping area while keeping its market town roots.

You could attract people to the town from Cambridge and Essex and work on bringing money into the town from outside instead of taking our money away.

The council must invest in the town first to turn that corner, and definitely not drop a load of new houses on the town first before the needed investment in jobs and infrastructure.

I have a little boy of 14 months old and I want him to grow up somewhere he has prospects to get on and the 2031 document doesn't deliver that.

This document is the town's future for the next 20 years.

Chad Lewzey
Baines Coney
Haverhill

This is a better vision

I WHOLEHEARTEDLY agree with your article on the vision for Haverhill's future.

Clr Brown has summed it up in its entirety – this town has not changed in many years, the High Street is poorly serviced with inadequate shopping and it seems the local authority is more than happy to allow this to continue and the shoppers to migrate to Cambridge and Bury St Edmunds. They have been quick to double the population and take the council tax allowing that development but when it comes to the infrastructure, they are lagging behind, some of this money needs to be ploughed back into Haverhill. In actual fact Haverhill has become the forgotten outpost of Suffolk – all the services and industry have been centred in the other towns.

This town is in dire need of better roads and even a restored rail link in order for it to compete fairly with the other towns who still retain their links.

What happened to the proposed retail development at Hamlet Green?

Was it the locals who stopped it or the shopkeepers who feared for their livelihood? In either case it would have brought much-needed spending power to the town.

More shops, more doctors and improved facilities is what this town needs, not more houses without these necessities and it needs to happen now not later when it be too late. Even the latest development at Hanchett End still doesn't have any extra small shops, they will all have to rely on Sainsburys.

It is about time the local authority realised the urgency of this cause and instigated an action plan to tackle the problem. By the time we get to 2031 Haverhill will consist of banks, betting offices, charity shops, estate agents and the rare retail shop.

Graham Cook
Haverhill

More houses? No!

I WAS shocked that planning permission can be gained for 2,500 houses without even involving the people that these properties intrude on, let alone the people of Haverhill being involved in the decision to build so many. People still do not know about it.

My concerns are that the basic needs of Haverhill will need to be much improved and so far I have read absolutely nothing about the building of any new health centres to house the doctors, dentists etc that will be needed to cope with the influx of what could be up to 6,000 people.

The town itself would also need to be updated and improved to cope with this. I have seen no plans for any new shopping centres. Haverhill High Street is little changed for many years.

All the council seem to be able to agree on building is houses and more houses! All on prime agricultural land as well.

The traffic problems also created by these 2,500 homes needs to be hugely re-thought.

At the moment the plans are to bring the majority of the traffic out onto a road that runs through an estate which is already clogged at peak times because of three schools and the town's football community centre, and a country lane that is, in places, not wide enough for two cars.

FRANCIS WOOLLEY

The service of Thanksgiving for the Life and Ministry of Canon Francis Woolley took place on Saturday May 25 at Holy Trinity Church.

The service, attended by family, friends, colleagues and former congregations was conducted by Reverend Dr Julie Norris and The Vey Reverend Keith Johnson.

Edward, Francis' brother, talked briefly about Francis who was a much-loved priest with a unique sense of humour.

The Balsham Singers, of whom Francis was a member, sang Ave Verum by Elgar and a Pavane was played by the Hand Chime Group from West Wickham. The family welcomed everyone to the Church Institute after the service to share memories and refreshments.

On the previous Sunday, the bell ringers rang their tribute to Francis, who always showed great interest in the church bells and the ringers, and also to Richard Young who was treasurer for Balsham PCC for 30 years and worked alongside Francis for the years he served as Rector for the Benefice. Richard was also the husband of Anita, one of the bell ringers.

FLOWER FESTIVAL AND OPEN GARDENS

Holy Trinity Church will be open from 11am – 5pm on Saturday and Sunday June 29 and 30 to see the floral arrangements created by villagers, with all money raised going towards the new function room and toilets at the church. There will be refreshments, a raffle and tombola and some wonderful gardens to explore.

On Sunday evening there will be Songs of Praise at 5pm.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY Schedules are now available for the annual show on Saturday July 27 in the Meadow School.

Copies are available at the Post Office.

Cup holders are reminded to please return their cups and trophies to Frank Morgan at the beginning of July.

Homes, sweet homes, for nesting lizards

HOUSE hunters looking for a new place in Clare are not the only ones finding themselves new homes.

A group of common lizards have been re-homed in a nearby field, and the conditions have been altered to suit their needs.

Charles Church Anglia has worked closely with environmental consultancy firm, The Landscape Partnership, to help relocate the lizards from the site of its Chilton Place new homes development, where work is due to start in July.

The work has included clearing some space for the lizards to sunbathe, as well as developing some much-needed grassland to keep them out of sight of predators.

Several hibernation mounds have been made from recycled brick and concrete pieces, offering perfect, frost-free places for winter shelter.

Senior ecologist Nick Sibbet has been leading the work.

He said: "Lizards are struggling to live in large parts of England's countryside these days, but some have found a home at Clare. "We have been working with the Charles Church team on site to catch the lizards and we've made habitat improvements to the field so they have a safe place to feed, breed and hibernate."

Chilton Place, on Stoke Road, will provide 60 family homes. Call 0844 248 1196 or visit the website www.charleschurch.com for details.

Kicking up a stink over pooch poos

LAZY dog owners will be shamed on the streets as a campaign is launched against people who refuse to scoop.

Residents and councillors are fed up with irresponsible owners leaving a mess on the streets in the town.

Bright red "clean it up" stencils are going to be sprayed across pavements in Haverhill in fouling hot spots where warning signs, police patrols and dog bins are continuously ignored by walkers.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council is taking action and joining in with national campaign The Big Scoop, due to be launched by the Dogs Trust and Keep Britain Tidy tomorrow.

Cllr Peter Stevens, St Edmundsbury Borough Council Cabinet member for environment, said: "The stencil is designed to challenge bad habits.

"We need to break a behaviour

DEBRA FOX

pattern, and being linked to this very public and arresting image may be enough to make the offender realise their fault.

"Dog fouling is the most offensive form of littering and we are wholeheartedly supporting the Big Scoop campaign in Haverhill."

Earlier this month the Dogs Trust revealed that fouling is on the rise for the first time in 10 years – with 64 per cent of people considering dog poo the worst litter item they could come across.

The Big Scoop is inviting everyone across the country to take up the fight against on-street messes to stop pavements, parks, sports pitches and beaches becoming unsafe and unclean.

Any dog walker out without a bag in Haverhill can ask the town's Safer Neighbourhood officers out and about on the estates for a free bag, so they can clear up.

Bags are also available from the council offices in Lower Downs Slade.

Cllr Stevens said: "Dog owners can put their filled bags into any street litter bin in the borough – not just the red dog bins provided in popular dog walking areas.

"They only have to carry the bag as far as the nearest bin."

Pet owners who fail to clean up the mess left by their dog can be given a fixed penalty notice of £50.

If the case reaches court, owners could be eligible for a fine of up to £1,000.

Members of the public who witness any dog owner not clearing up can pass the information to their Safer Neighbourhood Officer, or contact the St Edmundsbury Waste Management team on 01284 757320 with the details.

mer pupil extended an invite to his teacher to visit his own school, which was established in 1586 by Richard Pates – an ancestor of the Castle Manor teacher.

Mr Ellicott, whose parents still live in Haverhill, was impressed by what he had the chance to see on his visit.

He said: "It was a wonderful day and the hospitality afforded me was so generous.

"The students were courteous and immaculately dressed. They obviously care about their school and the classes we visited were so welcoming.

"It has a lovely feel and the whole academy should rightly feel proud of the community they have built."

OPENING: Mayor of Haverhill Roger André attended to officially open the transformed courtyard, right

Taking lessons to the great outdoors

DEBRA FOX

A GROUP of scouts sat back and admired their hard work at an open evening to launch their project.

A dozen of the Colne Valley Triad Explorer Scout Unit, who meet at Colne Valley Road, Haverhill, gave up their free time to create a courtyard classroom for the children at Burton End Primary School.

The scouts, aged between 14 and 18, spent three evenings and a weekend tidying up the area to make it more suitable for the children of the school to use.

Their work included filling a pond, painting picnic tables and building raised beds.

Debbie Hodges, scout leader, told how proud she was of her team for taking on such a worthwhile task for Community Week, held nationwide every year by the scouting movement.

She said: "I am extremely pleased with all the Explorers who took part.

"They all put in a lot of effort to turn the courtyard into a fantastic useable space.

"I hope that all the children of Burton End school will find great enjoyment in using it and that the Explorers feel proud to have achieved such a transformation."

THE TEAM: Scouts who gave up their free time to create a courtyard classroom for children at Burton End School

Staff, students and guests celebrated at an open evening, held at the school on June 4.

Newly-elected Haverhill town mayor and school governor Cllr Roger André also attended the event.

Fay Trusler, head teacher at Burton End, thanked the scouts for their effort which she said gave the children a clean and friendly place in which to play and learn. She said: "It has been a great community effort and we are extremely grateful for the help we have received from the Colne Valley Triad Explorers.

"It was wonderful to see some of our ex-students back helping at their school. The hard work that the Explorers put in helped inspire our pupils and their teachers to continue with Gardening Club as they had a project to complete.

"We are also very glad of the support that we have received from parents and Friends of Burton End School.

"All children in school will benefit from the opportunity of being able to use this beautiful outside area, which the children have named The Courtyard Classroom."

The project was completed with help from B&Q and Field Ltd. B&Q donated through its waste disposal scheme and Field Ltd donated a tonne of topsoil which enabled the group to complete the filling of the pond in the courtyard.

Suffolk learners reap the rewards of hard work

SUCCESS stories from across the county were celebrated at a glittering awards ceremony.

Adult learners, tutors and volunteers from across Suffolk had their hard work recognised in the annual Suffolk Adult Learners' Awards, held at University Campus Suffolk.

The awards, which were held on May 23, recognised big achievements such as the win of Debut Brooks, who has completed multiple courses and an apprenticeship while being in employment.

West Suffolk stars include Sheila Gee who won the 65+ Learner of the Year Award, Ann Williams, principal of West Suffolk College, who won the Outstanding Services to Adult Education and Training in Suffolk Award and Anna Green who won Inspirational Learner of the Year.

Anna said: "I have faced many challenges in my life but through adult learning I have made many friends and gained lots of knowledge – my biggest achievement being getting into university. It feels so good to be recognised for this award and to be part of the ceremony and I really hope it encourages more people to find out what adult learning can offer people."

A total of 10 awards were presented on the night.

Leap project manager Miles Cole said: "The examples of how adult learning has transformed people's lives is a credit not only to the hard work and perseverance of the learners but also the commitment and dedication of all the tutors, volunteers and providers and we look forward to next year's celebration."

12-year-old Kelly won two classes in the first competition in Buckinghamshire.

In the second competition she won the qualifying round, beating 30 other competitors to win a place in the October Schools Final.

In her other two competitions, Kelly took home five first places, as well as a second and third, in various classes.

She rode two ponies – Cherokee Lass and Smudge.

She said: "It's fun to ride, but hard work training. It's been a tough half term, but I'm really grateful for the opportunities to ride all over the country."

Nurseries scoop website award

AN EMPIRE of nurseries have taken home an award for their brand new website.

Dizzy Ducks Day Nurseries, who have bases in Haverhill and across Essex, won a Bronze Award from Mumpreneur UK which recognised the high quality of their website.

As well as providing information about the nurseries and their facilities, the site also offers helpful parenting tips and shares support.

The first Dizzy Ducks nursery, in Buttsbury, Billericay, was set up by mum-of-three Sian Nisbett in response to the lack of suitable childcare for her first daughter Abbie, now nine.

After years of hard work, the business has grown from a

DEBRA FOX

30-place nursery to five nurseries, two out of school centres and one creche – and the nod from Mumpreneur UK is simply the icing on the cake.

Sian, 32, said: "It's for mums and it's run by mums and Mumpreneur aims to champion all mums in business and mums who have set up businesses."

Sian explained that the aim for Dizzy Ducks this year was to take a step back and focus on their core values which, at their heart, are to give information to families and make life easier for them.

After working hard to turn the website into a one-stop shop for parents across the area, Sian and the team are pleased it has paid off.

The 32-year-old who is also mum to Isabelle, six, and two-year-old Nancy, said: "It's fantastic. We specially worked on the website this year and it's amazing to win an award."

Each of the nurseries have a manager and early years professional on site to maintain the highest standards of childcare possible and Sian revealed that she is currently looking at expanding to two further premises.

Zumbaful day raises thousands

MORE than 40 dancers joined forces to take part in a fundraising zumbathon in aid of a newborn charity.

The keen movers and shakers dedicated three hours of their Sunday to doing the hot Latin routines and working up a sweat.

Friends Kerri Cox and Stacey Norris organised the event, which took place on June 2, for Save the Babies in memory of a friend's daughter who died aged 18 months.

Kerri, along with fellow instructors Katie Burnett and Stacey Hunt, led the sessions which were eagerly received by hordes of women - and one man, Andy Palazon, who was sponsored more than £50 to take part wearing ladies zumba wear.

A range of raffle prizes were donated to the cause by local businesses and a selection of stalls set up camp on the day to entertain between the exercise.

Kerri said: "It was such a success myself and Stacey are considering a yearly event."

"A huge thank you to anyone who participated, sponsored, donated and came to see us. We are extremely grateful."

Kerri also thanked The Tavern, Birdbrook, for hosting the fun-filled day, which raised more than £2,000 in total.

Child rapist is sent to jail

A RAPIST who threatened to kill one of his victims has been jailed.

BY JENNIE BAKER AND DEBRA FOX

David Carter was convicted by a jury at Cambridge Crown Court of four rapes, an attempted rape and a sexual assault against two girls under 13.

He was sent to prison for 15 years for each rape and attempted rape and four years for the sexual assault, all to be served concurrently.

Carter was also given a five-year extension for each charge carrying a 15-year sentence, also to be served concurrently, and handed a Sexual Offences Prevention Order.

The court heard the 24-year-old from St Mary's Walk, Steeple Bumpstead, had threatened to throw one victim out of the window on one occasion and had threatened to kill her on another.

Mark Shelley, mitigating for Carter, who committed the crimes between January 2005 and January 2008, said: "Perhaps the central point is he was a young man, he had that car accident which has left a scar on his face and he was a fairly lonely young man living at home with seemingly not many friends."

Judge Jonathan Haworth said the fact there were two victims, threats of violence and a marked age difference between Carter and his victims were aggravating factors.

Carter always strenuously denied the charges throughout the duration of the trial, insisting that the girls were lying and said: "I have done nothing wrong, nothing at all."

His mum and sister also took to the stand during the trial in his defence.

The jury deliberated for 14 hours and eight minutes before returning all of their verdicts.

Primary celebrates Ofsted success

A PRIMARY school is celebrating a good result in a recent Ofsted check.

Place Farm Primary Academy, of Camps Road, Haverhill, received the second highest grade from inspectors.

The report, which is available on the Ofsted website, applauded the manners, achievements and respect of pupils, as well as the lively curriculum and lessons.

Head Delyth Reed said: "I am delighted with the report, which recognises the hard work and commitment of all staff, pupils and parents."

The All-Through Partnership with Castle Manor Academy and the commitment of the Castle Partnership Academy Trust also received high praise during the inspection.

School opens new sculpture

AN outside learning space has been built after a primary school took home a grant.

Clements Primary School, in Greenfields Way, Haverhill, spent the Big Lottery Fund money on creating an enchanting outdoor structure where children can play and learn.

The structure was built by Artisan Structures and provides a base for many school clubs and other activities.

The outdoor frame has been named The Hideaway by the school's pupils.

The octagonal shelter has sweet chestnut uprights, woven willow side panels and is topped off by a carved spiral roof centre-piece.

Headteacher Lesley Farrow said: "This is a wonderful addition to our school and will mean children across the whole age range will have a magical outside base in which to share stories, play and conduct nature studies."

OPENING: The structure was officially unveiled on Wednesday June 5.

A filmmaker's pledge to help out the band

A LIVE music DVD is going a long way to support the future of a progressive metal band.

Filmmaker Mark Allard, of Landseer Court, Haverhill, shot live footage of American band Halcyon Way last year to make a DVD.

Now, the film will be released as limited edition to raise money for the band to continue with their career.

Twenty five copies of Mark's DVD, Live in London, are going to be sold on popular music support website Indie Go Go, which allows fans from across the globe to bid on merchandise.

The money they pay will go towards supporting the future projects of Halcyon Way, which include shooting a new music video, buying tour equipment and paying for studio time.

Mark, 26, is the Operations Manager at Cineworld Haverhill, Ehringshausen Way, and sees his film making as a professional hobby.

The 26-year-old explained that he has previously worked on other commercials and music videos.

He said: "I've been a friend of the band for a few years and they asked me if I'd come to Islington to make the film. "It was fun and I had a team of five cameramen with me so it was a professional operation."

Mark, who has been doing filming work since 2007, is about to take a year's hiatus from his filmmaking to go and work and live in New Zealand for 12 months.

Despite leaving his passion behind, he revealed to the Weekly News that he felt he was going out on a high.

He said: "It's quite a nice way for it all to end before I leave and I feel it's something that positively summarises my career so far."

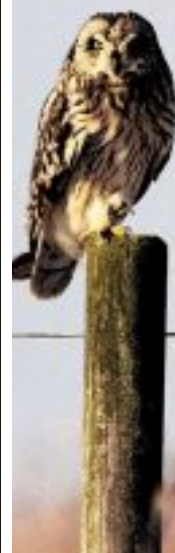

The DVD may also be re-released when the band bring out their fourth album, due in November this year.

For more information on Halcyon Way's funding campaign and the Live in London DVD go to www.indiegogo.com/projects/halcyon-way-music-video-album-tour-fundraiser.

TRIUMPH: CXG Property Services were awarded The Gold Winners for East of England Letting Agent of the year. Karren Brady is pictured handing the award to Robin Pilley and Elaine Grubb

You're hired, Karren tells letting agent

A LETTING agent based in Haverhill has taken home a prestigious award after a glittering London ceremony.

CXG Property Services, based in High Street, scooped The Gold Winners for East of England Letting Agent of the year at the Lettings Agency of the Year Awards, held at The Lancaster Hotel.

More than 400 letting agents from across the country attended the event, where prizes were given out by Karren Brady, one of the UK's leading female business speakers and Advisor to Lord Sugar on BBC TV show The Apprentice.

The judging process, which was monitored by The Property Ombudsman Christopher Hamer, saw 19 industry experts assess and review the entrants.

The decision-making included more than 10,000 minutes of telephone interviews and mystery shopping visits to determine who delivered the best customer service in the business.

Only the cream of the crop took home prizes and for the first time in the history of the awards, individual employees were also recognised for outstanding work.

Directors Robin and Daniel Pilley said: "We are very proud of this achievement and combined with our recent NALS accreditation is a reflection of the dedication of our team in delivering customer service to the highest standard."

CXG has been providing residential sales and property management services to residents of Haverhill and the surrounding area since 1996.

In 2010 the company was nominated as finalists in three categories of the Landlord and Lettings Awards.

They went on to win the Property Sourcer of the Year award, which has now been joined by their most recent win.

Nursery looks for new attendees through fun

PROSPECTIVE parents and children were invited to a day of fun at a local nursery.

Home from Home Childcare Day Nursery, based at Exhibition Farm in Withersfield, filled a day with activities for children to enjoy and even the absence of the sun did not dampen the fun.

The little ones could take part in a few jumps on a bouncy castle, try out a new look with face-painting, and name a new friend if they played guess the teddy's name.

For the mums and dads, there was a raffle and tombola as well as the chance for some grub from the barbecue.

There were also stalls for browsing, furry friends at pets' corner and a chance to get even messier with cake decorating.

The day was a great success with plenty of visitors in attendance and milling around the beautiful garden settings.

For further information about the nursery you can visit their website at www.hfhnurseries.co.uk or call 01440 708254

UPS AND DOWNS: Madeleine Reiss is pleased her mum encouraged her to enter a competition.

'I'm not a novelist yet but maybe one day'

Reluctant novelist Madeleine Reiss is about to launch her debut title, Someone to Watch Over Me. LOUISE MARTIN meets the author to hear her reservations about writing the book and how her triumph on completion was halted when she was diagnosed with breast cancer.

AUTHOR Madeleine Reiss didn't actually want to write her debut novel. A journalist for 15 years, Madeleine admits she was coerced into writing it by her mother, and that it wasn't an entirely pleasant experience.

"I just think there are an awful lot of books in the world already," smiles Madeleine, 51. "And writing a book is really hard; most mornings when I was writing I just felt crippling fear."

The novel, Someone to Watch Over Me, launches this month – and is the result of a competition her mum spotted on The Alan Titchmarsh Show.

On the programme, author Cathy Kelly was telling viewers about the People's Novelist Competition. To enter, contestants were asked to send in three chapters of their story idea and the winner would land an advance of £10,000 and a publishing deal with HarperCollins. "My mum literally rang me every week to nag me about it," recalls the mum-of-two. "I had an idea and it was kind of sketchy, but I thought I might be able to get three chapters. You enter these things and you don't in a million years think you're going to win, you just don't, you don't even look at the small print, you just do it because your mother tells you to."

Born in Athens, Madeleine moved to Cambridge when she was 11 and is from a literary family. Her father is the late Booker Prize winner Barry Unsworth and her two sisters are also writers: Tania's children's book is due to be published in January 2014, while Thomasina, who is a drama teacher, has published a textbook.

An experienced writer, Madeleine's years' as a journalist for women's magazines and newspapers meant she had written about a range of subjects from hair removal and ways to pep up your sex life, to divorce and bereavement, but she had never attempted a book. But with her mum's persistence, Madeleine completed the three chapters in time for the May 2011 deadline.

In the following months, her entry was long-listed and then shortlisted from more than 1,000 entries and, in November of that year, she was invited on to the show to read an extract. "I was in a state of nervous tension," remembers Madeleine, "but then I won! The set was all rigged out to look like a fake library so there I was sitting on a huge polystyrene book, with my legs dangling over the side like a hefty elf in a workshop.

"It was a very surreal experience as golden rain came down from the ceiling and there was Jeffrey Archer, Penny Smith and Cathy Kelly all saying nice things about the book."

Set in Cambridge, Ely and Norfolk, Someone to Watch Over Me tells the story of a little boy called Charlie who goes missing from a Norfolk beach and the effect that loss has on his parents. "It's kind of a love story and it's got thriller elements, but it's really about loss and bereavement and whether or not we can ever really come to terms with things like the loss of a child," says Madeleine.

Tragically, the themes are something the author has had to deal with in her own life as her first husband, John, died of a brain tumour when he was 29, and their son, Felix, was almost 4.

Madeleine is certain this harrowing time in her life has shaped her writing. "I talk as if I know what I'm saying about writing but I've only written one novel, so I'm not an expert, but I think you use stuff that you've experienced but not necessarily in the same way.

"Although what happens to this mother isn't what happened to me I could identify with the sense of loss and bereavement that I experienced when my husband died.

"Good things and bad things happen to people – you don't want the bad things, but they become a part of you and a part of how you go on in life."

After winning the competition, Madeleine set to work completing the novel and says the writing process was far harder than she ever imagined. At the time she was working as a media and communications manager for local homeless charity Emmaus, so would write in the evenings and weekends.

"I had to be really disciplined and that was quite hard as everybody knows writers waste a lot of time cleaning the kitchen floor, looking out the window and reading other people's work.

"And it was scary. I was always thinking 'Can I do this? Who am I trying to kid? This is rubbish'. But then there were the occasional lovely bits when three hours would pass by unnoticed."

Madeleine finished her novel early last year and, despite her reservations, was immensely proud of her achievement. But while she was still enjoying her high, and her thoughts had turned to book number two, Madeleine's triumph ended when she experienced a series of life-changing events.

"Three really awful things happened," says Madeleine. "My father died in June, shortly after that I was made redundant and then in the November I got breast cancer.

"So it was three things one after the other, and because it was following on from winning a competition it kind of felt like 'Oh right, you've been so pleased with yourself for winning this competition and now we're going to chuck everything at you'."

Madeleine's cancer was discovered at a routine mammogram. Instead of being contacted for her first mammogram at 50 like most women, Madeleine was actually 51 and believes this one year difference may have saved her life.

"I feel I was extraordinarily lucky as it was spotted very early," says Madeleine. "It was very small and no-one could feel it. If I'd had the mammogram at 50 the chances are it would have been too small to see; then there would have been a three-year gap before the next one and it may have been too late."

Surprisingly, the talented writer describes the feeling of being told she had cancer as similar to how she felt when she won the competition.

"It was a kind of blur of noise and information and it was the same in the sense of the unreality and disbelief, but the competition was followed on very closely with joy, and this was followed on with anxiety: 'How bad is it?' and 'Am I going to die?'"

Madeleine had begun book two when she was diagnosed but admits it was difficult to continue writing. "I carried on for a bit but really I didn't do very much writing for three months during the period of diagnosis and all the results," she says. "Waiting for the results was the worst bit as anyone who has been through it will tell you as you're just waiting to hear how bad it is."

Madeleine underwent a double lumpectomy just before Christmas last year and in January endured three weeks of radiotherapy. "You feel exposed and you feel vulnerable but you cope, you just do," she says. "I can't stress enough how important it is for women to go and have a mammogram. I'm a real poster girl for them. It is undignified and it's scary, but it's worth it."

Madeleine will now have a mammogram every year – an experience she knows will always be a challenge. "I expect it will be a scary experience every year but I'm being looked after – some people may have it and they don't know."

Six months since diagnosis, Madeleine says she is now feeling better and has completed the first draft of her second book.

"That one was even harder to write than the first," she laughs. "It's a completely new story and there's more death and grimness."

Someone to Watch Over Me is dedicated to her husband, David, sons Felix and Jack, and her dad, who lost his battle with lung cancer a month before the novel was finished.

The prize-winning author's titles line the shelves in Madeleine's Cambridge home and she has found comfort in her dad knowing she had won the competition before he died.

"He lived in Italy and the last time I saw him he came to Cambridge and I took a picture of him holding my award, looking really proud," she says.

Madeleine says she still doesn't feel like a novelist yet but is pleased her mum encouraged her to enter the competition.

"I think you have to have at least three under your belt before you can call yourself a real novelist," she laughs.

"If I sell another one then perhaps I'll start to think 'Just maybe I can do this'."

In fine Voice

What appealed to you about the part of Mari?

Oh my goodness. Well, I think it's one of the best parts written for women. It's truly incredible, I think there's only six pages I'm not on stage and those are rapid costume changes. And she's funny, she's tragic, she's full of love, she wants love, she's a grieving widow, she is a loving mother that doesn't know how to show it – it's just everything!

Has it been a challenging role?

It is a challenging part because, as I say, it's just so busy and so full-on because she is the juggernaut that drives the play. It's a big departure; she's nothing like me, but I know her so well now I can empathise with her. I love her.

Why should people come and see the show?

[Writer and director] Jim Cartwright has made the whole evening so special. They're not just watching a play, they are involved from the second they walk into the auditorium. They are just entertained from the second they walk through the door and it's a really unusual experience.

What is it like working alongside Ray Quinn (Billy) and Jess Robinson (Little Voice)?

We have a ball, an absolute ball, and of course when we get to Cambridge it's the last week. So it will be party time!

Will you miss it once the show ends?

Most definitely, I will miss Mari Hoff, I will, but I will be working with Jim Cartwright once again on something else but I can't tell you what yet. But to do one of his works is amazing, it's just been an absolute joy.

Is it true you are set to return to Coronation Street this year? (Beverley has played feisty barmaid Liz McDonald on and off for more than 20 years)

It is, yes it is. I left a couple of years ago to go back on stage again because I think it's important for an actor to do both and I'd not been on stage for 10 years. I will have played Little Voice for 32 weeks, which is a long time on tour, then Coronation Street got a new producer [Stuart Blackburn], who I worked with and adore. I've worked with him for 10 years; he said to me on day two in the job that he wanted to bring Liz back. I love playing Liz so I'm really looking forward to working in front of the camera again, and the intimacy of camera, but I'll miss having a live audience, that's for sure.

What are you most proud of career-wise?

Each job you do brings new challenges. I loved creating Liz and creating that iconic character, but then playing Mari Hoff, who is totally different but still another iconic character, so it's been amazing. So few plays have great parts for women. You look at any Shakespeare play they'll have 12 men and two women. Writers need to write more for women.

Canada laughter

COMEDY fans and those hoping to spot the next brightest stars of the UK sitcom and stand-up scene might want to grab a seat for this year's Footlights Tour Show.

It's called Canada, it's an hour-long "sharp, ambitious" sketch show and it's written and performed by Emma Sidi, Matty Bradley, Matilda Wnek and Rosa Robson, a troupe of talented Cambridge University students and graduates. But that, I'm sorry to say, is all we know for now . . . it's a wait, see and (hopefully) laugh yourself silly kind of show.

The foursome is previewing the performance in Cambridge – at the ADC of course – and London before trundling up to Edinburgh to see who they can impress. And then, in a tradition that is now in its 50th year, they'll be hopping on a plane for a brief tour of America, but sadly, not Canada (nightmare – they'd definitely have sold out).

Footlights is celebrating its 130th anniversary so it's sure to be a pretty fantastic piece;

Stephen Fry, Hugh Laurie and David Mitchell must be quaking in their boots.

Footlights Tour Show 2013: Canada, The ADC Theatre, running until Saturday, June 22, at 7.45pm.

Tickets £8-£10 from (01223) 300085 or www.adctheatre.com.

■ Now celebrating their 50th anniversary, THE SEARCHERS' remarkable career continues. Catch them tonight, when they will be performing all their classic hits, combined with anecdotes and reminiscences, all from 8pm.

■ Get on down for AN EVENING OF DIRTY DANCING tomorrow; this smash hit tribute to one of the greatest movie soundtracks of all time has been wowing audiences all over the UK since 2010.

Featuring a dynamic cast of West End performers sure to show you the time of your life!

■ Image Musical Theatre, who brought us The Wizard of Oz, return to the Arts Centre on Saturday at 2.30pm with a vibrant musical production of Kenneth Grahame's Tales of the River Bank, the Open Road and the Wild Wood. With all the usual characters, exuberant Mr Toad, Mole and Ratty, THE WIND IN THE WILLOWS is beautifully written, played and produced and in Image Musical Theatre's immensely popular format, gives the opportunity for everyone to take part.

■ For 60 years Elizabeth II has met each of her 12 Prime Ministers in a weekly audience at Buckingham Palace. Both parties have an unspoken agreement never to repeat what is said, not even to their spouses. THE AUDIENCE, starring Helen Mirren and Haydn Gwynne, breaks this contract of service, imagining a series of pivotal meetings between the Downing Street incumbents and their Queen. From Churchill to Cameron, each prime Minister has used these private conversations as a sounding board and a confessional – sometimes intimate, sometimes explosive. Recorded live from the National Theatre production today and shown as live on our cinema screen this Saturday and Monday June 24 at 1.30pm.

news from

■ THE HAVERHILL CHORAL SOCIETY will give a performance of popular songs from 1953 on Sunday June. Coronation Year Revisited starts at 3pm.

■ Wurlitzer maestro ROBERT WOLFE is without question one of the top British organists, and will be hitting the right notes next Tuesday at 7.30pm.

■ Among guitarists and critics WOODY MANN is considered a modern master. With cabaret seating, come along next Wednesday June at 8pm and pick your seat!

■ The well-respected Liverpoolian medium DEREK ACORAH, whose regular appearances on UK Living's Most Haunted and James Whale's radio show has gained him a following of staunch believers, will be with us on Thursday June 20 at 8pm.

film of the week

NOW that Christopher Nolan has completed his Dark Knight trilogy he puts on his producer's hat for the latest reboot of the Superman franchise which traces the rise of the spandex-clad superhero from birth.

When planet Krypton faces destruction, Jor-El (Russell Crowe) sends his son to Earth in the hope that the child will be spared.

The infant is adopted and raised by farmers Jonathan and Martha Kent (Kevin Costner and Diane Lane), who name the boy Clark and raise him as their own flesh and blood.

From an early age Clark (played by Cooper Timberline and Dylan Sprayberry) realises he is different from the other children in Smallville, Kansas, and when the school bus is involved in a terrible accident he uses his untapped powers to save his classmates.

Jonathan and Martha are worried that friends and neighbours will shun Clark if they knew who and what he really is, so the boy keeps his Kryptonian lineage a secret. But searching for his place in a cruel and unforgiving world, he embarks on a journey of self-discovery, tracked by plucky reporter Lois Lane (Amy Adams).

The arrival on Earth of war-mongering Kryptonian General Zod (Michael Shannon) forces Clark to reveal his heroic alter ego but, just as Jonathan and Martha feared, men in power are terrified by his abilities and view him as the enemy rather than mankind's potential saviour.

Colours are clues

ARE you a person who goes for hot reds and acid yellows or do you prefer a softer palette of pinks, creams and soft blues?

The colours you choose for your garden can affect how you feel – and it seems gardeners must be getting it right, as new research from BBC Gardeners' World magazine shows that gardeners generally are a happier bunch than non-gardeners.

Colour psychologist Angela Wright, author of The Beginner's Guide To Colour Psychology (Kyle Cathie, £12.99), reports: "Different colours affect us in different ways. Red is physically stimulating. It raises our pulse rate and makes us over-estimate the temperature around us, as well as the speed at which time is passing – one reason why red is such a predominant colour in fast-food restaurants."

She adds that what defines whether a colour such as blue is calming or stimulating is the saturation of colour. Strong, bright blues stimulate, while pale blues soothe.

Yellow is a positive colour that lifts our spirits and promotes great optimism.

"The right yellow makes us feel happy and is the most brilliant of the primary hues, because it's full of light energy," says Wright.

Green helps to restore us, while the other two main colours in the colour wheel have qualities of their adjacent primary colours – orange bringing together the warmth of red and the optimism of yellow, while mauve is unusual in that it combines the fierceness of red and the coolness of blue.

The survey shows that that 64% of people like cool flower colours while 36% prefer hot colours.

Wright believes it's possible to work out your preferred palette by analysing your personality.

Those who are cool and calm by nature, who prefer understated elegance and have a natural gift for keeping things in proportion, are more likely to favour a garden palette of soft pinks, mauves, purples and pale blues.

People with intense energy, with a bossy nature and natural driving force, are more likely to go for rich golds, reds, oranges and warm purples, while creative and energetic types, who love perfection and whose energy is contained, should favour white, tints of pale blue and green with occasional rich dark contrasts.

And those who are in their element in the garden, trying to bring the outdoors indoors with many indoor plants, are more likely to have an unfussy design of garden, with bright single blooms and simple mid-tone colours of sky blue, yellow and bright green.

"We are all born with a natural instinct for colour. Don't over-think it – follow your instincts," Wright advises.

The full findings of the survey on happiness will be revealed in a special theatre session at Gardeners' World Live at the NEC, Birmingham on Saturday. Full details of BBC Gardeners' World magazine's colour special is featured in the June edition.

Star cars at Two Counties

THERE'S lots of preparation going on to ensure that this year's Two Counties Motor Show at Rowley Mile, Newmarket on June 30 will be a spectacular event – and one of those exhibiting, Wallis & Son, will be taking along a selection of its awesome range of rental cars.

Elliot Wallis, sales manager at Barton-based Wallis & Son, is looking forward to presenting Show-goers with a thrilling range of options from the firm's rental stock.

"Customers are happy to rent rather than buy these days," he says of the service which started in 2011 and is going "very, very well", with mainly private customers picking one of the various options, from a cheap Suzuki to a Bentley Flying Spur and all points in between including a Lamborghini and Porsche. "We're the cheapest Range Rover and Aston Martin rental firm in the UK," Elliot says. Rentals available

STAR CAR FOR HIRE: This Jensen Interceptor Mk III will be on the Wallis & Son stand at the Two Counties Motor Show on June 30.

include an Aston Martin DB9 and DB7, a Bentley Flying Spur, a fleet of Range Rovers, an S-Class, a Jensen Interceptor Mk111 (£195 a day), a 1956 Bentley S1, a 1934

Daimler 15, and a 1986 Lamborghini Jalpa Targa. For details go to www.active-rentals.co.uk or call (01223) 263911.

The Classic Car section will also have a Panther De Ville. A 1930s 'Al Capone' Bugatti replica, Panther came up with the De Ville – shown on the cover – in 1974. Fittingly, the character of Cruella De Vil drove one in Disney's 102 Dalmations. Inspired by the Bugatti Royale, the enormous bonnet hid Jaguar six-cylinder or V12 engines and there were also Jaguar XJ subframes back and front.

Other classic include a 1973 Ford Mustang Mach 1, a stunning restoration of the ultimate muscle car, some 1970's Lotus Esprits, low wide and wedgey, and Minis galore, plus Richard Hammond's favourite car, the Dodge Charger.

Tickets prices for the Two Counties Show are just £5 for adults, £3 for 11 to 16 year-olds, and free for under-11s. The charities involved in this year's event are Suffolk Young Carers and Headway. Please go to www.two-countiesmotorshow.co.uk for details.

REVEALED: The new Skoda Octavia vRS.

Octavia vRS revamp due at Goodwood

SKODA has revealed the first pictures of the new Octavia vRS ahead of its full debut at the Goodwood Festival of Speed in July.

The new vRS has been unveiled in hatchback and 'Combi' estate guises, although it is not clear whether the Combi name will be used in the UK market.

There will be two engine options, as before: a 217bhp petrol and a 181bhp diesel, with the faster petrol option catapulting the car to 62mph from rest in 6.8 seconds, on the way to a top speed of 154mph when equipped with a six-speed manual gearbox.

Ask your local dealer for details.

Blackjacks shade it to notch fourth win

HAVERHILL Blackjacks claimed their fourth successive win in British Baseball Federation, A League South with a narrow 8-7 victory at home to Herts Eagles.

Jerred Estenson, Matt Schellhaas and Paul Warner gave Blackjacks an early 3-0 lead while three strikeouts from Estenson in the second inning ensured Herts remained scoreless.

Eagles pulled it back to 3-2 in the third inning only for Warner and Tommy Opal to restore the hosts' three-run cushion.

The visitors reduced the deficit to 5-3 only for Haverhill to storm away in the fourth inning, Estenson, Steven Phillips and Schellhaas all scoring thanks to Warner's hit.

Blackjacks could not add to their tally and were forced to hold on as Herts closed the gap.

But relief pitcher Ryan Pflugh claimed two strikeouts at the top of the ninth inning before Rob Wood finished the job with his throw to Phillips from third base beating the runner.

Tapping delighted to break 3hr mark

JACK Tappin has completed his first Olympic-length triathlon after taking part in the Buckden event.

The 25-year-old Haverhill Running Club member was making his debut over the 1.5km swim, 40km cycle and 10km run and he completed the course in 2hr 52min 57sec.

"The swim went well and I cycled quicker than expected so was confident ahead of the run," said Tappin.

"I was aiming to do it in under three hours, which I didn't think I'd manage, but after starting the run at a strong pace was confident I could do it, so was really pleased with my final time."

Next up for Tappin is the Cotswold 113 – a half Ironman distance (1.5km swim, 80km cycle and finally a half marathon) – triathlon in the Cotswolds this Sunday, June 16.

Play-off woe for Whiting

LEWIS Whiting was beaten in a sudden death play-off in the Suffolk Amateur Championship at Haverhill Golf Club.

The 15-year-old is a member of Haverhill and Gog Magog and he shot 72 in the first round but it was his second-round total that stood out. Whiting fired 66 to equal the amateur course record, which had been set by Dave Quinney in 2011. Stowmarket's Patrick Spraggs shot two rounds of 69 to equal Whiting on 138 and take the tournament to a play-off over holes 17 and 18. Spraggs wrapped up the title on the par four 17th with a par, and Whiting was awarded the John Doe Salver as runner-up.

Haverhill's Whiting, Chris Vince and Jack Bligh won the Club Team Championship with a total of 434, beating Stowmarket's Spraggs, Jack Forgan and Sam Forgan by four. Diss' James Biggs was the nett winner with 140 (71, 69).

The 16 players with the lowest 36-hole scores will contest the President's Mashie at Haverhill this weekend.

Leaderboard: 138 – Patrick Spraggs (Stowmarket) (69, 69) who beat Lewis Whiting (Haverhill) (72, 66) in a sudden death play-off; 143 – Chris Vince (72, 71). Junior Liam Merritt clinched the President's Putter crown, his first major win at the club.

On countback, he beat Del Thomas to the title after both players scored nett 69. And to top off the victory, he hit a hole-in-one on the par three, 184-yard 16th hole. Don Simpson was third with 71.

Judy Farren was the winner of the Ladies' Midweek Medal with nett 73, reducing her handicap by two to 31. Jackie Condon was second with 74 – her gross 91 being the lowest of the day – and Pat Wellstead was third with 77.

Gupta makes difference

AMIT Gupta had a good day against his old club as Haverhill overcame Halstead by 91 runs in Division One of the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship.

He made 82 and had the backing of Luke Youngs (44) and Adam Dellar (35) to get them to 272 for 8, before two wickets apiece for Gupta, Joe Woodley, Anthony Phillips and Dan Poole resulted in their opponents being out for 181.

"Although we were favourites, you still have to go and do the business on the park and we did that," said Haverhill skipper Simon Youngs.

It was honours even between Weston Colville and Abington as the two sides played out a high-scoring draw in the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League, Division Two.

On a good track, Weston Colville batted first, with Andy Brightmore (48) and Paul Dean (66) scoring freely and putting on 123 for the first wicket.

Coming in at No 3, Adam Taylor contributed a useful 37 but Abington continued to pick up wickets. Chris Scott (20) ensured the runs kept coming but Dale Archer (4) for 44) and Dave Furlow (3 for 50) kept them in check.

Stuart Duquemin (3 for 38) polished off the tail and Weston Colville were all out for 236.

The Abington reply got off to a bad start when opener Edward Wiseman departed for seven but they began to make steady progress with Will Earl (48) and Duquemin (85) putting on a useful 98 runs for the second wicket.

Hopes of snatching victory disappeared as the middle order and tail fell away and with the finish in sight only Vikrant Sharma (22) stayed long enough.

Guy Ennew's men held on to secure the draw with the innings ending 11 runs short of their opponents on 225 for 9.

Paul Dean took 4 for 32 for Colville.

■ An undefeated partnership of 110 runs between Will Bailey and Josh Ruthven saw Haverhill under-15s cruise to a 10-wicket victory over local rivals Sawston in the CYCA League.

Haverhill won the toss and chose to bowl first and they made a great start with Ben Eames claiming a wicket in the first over.

Sawston's Matt Day (42) steadied the ship and pushed his side on to 109 for 6 off 20 overs.

Bailey was the pick of the Haverhill bowlers with 2 for 19.

Haverhill openers Bailey and Ruthven started off well and grew in confidence as the innings progressed.

Nothing the Sawston bowlers could throw at the pair could unsettle them and they went on to complete the victory. Ruthven finished on 58 not out, with Bailey unbeaten on 36.

Sam Street took four wickets as Haverhill recovered from a slow start to beat Linton by 16 runs.

Visitors Haverhill won the toss and opted to bat but they lost two wickets in the first over. Skipper Ruthven and Street steadied the ship but both soon departed, leaving the score at 39 for 4.

Bailey, Tom Baker, Paul Jenkinson, Joseph Winter and Emma Ellis offered some resistance as Haverhill finished their 20 overs with 94 for 9.

Linton hoped to capitalise on Haverhill's low score but Ruthven took two early wickets to put them on the back foot.

Street was in superb form with the ball and his four-wicket haul for 12 runs helped dismiss Linton for 76.

■ Skipper Tom Baker led by example as his half-century helped Haverhill under-14s record their first win of the season, a 65-run victory over Fulbourn Institute.

Having lost the toss, Haverhill were put in to bat, but openers Baker and Hannah Vickers made light work of some tidy bowling.

Vickers made 23 before eventually departing, while Baker went on to score an excellent 54.

Joseph Winter contributed a useful 33 not out and Lucy Holder 17 not out as the hosts finished with 144 for 2 off their 20 overs.

The visitors struggled to get going in reply as Haverhill's bowlers took control. Baker took 2 for 1 as Fulbourn could muster only 79 for 7 in their innings.
